What do you need to know about university in the UK? Here are some facts:

UK Universities

World class

In the QS world university rankings, four UK universities feature in the top 10, while a further 24 rank in the top 200. Generally the UK is considered second only to the US in terms of the number of top universities.

Earning potential

In the UK jobseekers without a degree earn up to £12,000 a year less than their graduate peers entering the job market, the equivalent of more than £500,000 over an average working life.

Sweet deal

British students studying at UK universities can get government loans to cover fees and living costs; the loans don't have to be paid back until after they are earning at least £21,000 a year, and even then the loans are paid back only gradually. EU students are (for the moment) entitled to the same treatment. Students from elsewhere in the world pay more to study at UK universities.

Apply for a course

Students apply directly for specific degree programmes, eg 'History at Birmingham University'. This is unusual compared to other university systems, where students often only decide what they will major in in their second or third year of study.

Hierarchy

In the UK some universities are widely perceived as more prestigious than others, and have higher

All the courses for your subjects are sorted into three categories based on your grades and the entry requirements for the course.

Pick as many as you like but try to have at least one in each column.

If you get the grades you typed in earlier, or anything above that, it will be in the aspirational column.

If you drop a grade, you can find your options in the solid column.

If you drop two or more grades, your options will appear in the safe column.

In the aspirational column, you will notice some courses marked with little red dots and an exclamation mark. These are courses that are not only top of your range, but noted to be out of your range.

Unofficial overview

"Hallam is located on two campuses, one in Sheffield city centre, the other two miles away. New facilities include buildings for health and wellbeing, engineering and IT. All courses here have a strong focus on industry, and sandwich courses are very popular. Going out in Sheffield is amazing with a great music scene and a city full of students."

Edit >

Why do you want to study this subject?

I enjoy studying Chemistry because I feel it underpins how we as humans work and that is fascinating. Being able to study the chemical make-up of our bodies and what is happening to each of us, every second of every day would be amazing. Having read several articles on Chemistry I have come to understand the importance of in depth research and how much influence just one, well-executed study can have on the industry.

There is still so much to be explored about chemicals, both natural and man-made. The future of energy being one major concern that is prevalent in a lot of media and politics around the world. Knowing that the answer to all of our energy needs has inherently a chemical answer is exciting and one that I would love to be able to explore further.

 Comment from Ms Young on 1 November 2016 at 14:53

Good work! You should be more specific when talking about articles that you have read; can you name any? Try to flesh that part out a little.

Make sure you know where you are heading after this paragraph, it does sound like you could use the whole character limit just talking about how wonderful chemistry is. You need to ensure you bring in everything else that is important too.

How can Unifrog improve aspirations?

Unifrog gets students thinking about university early. It allows them explore courses that they may never have heard of before in a way that is relevant for them and they can absorb.

They will become familiar with Russell Group universities and Oxbridge colleges so that when they come to apply, the increased exposure will mean they are more likely to apply to the best universities for them.
